Baltimore, Maryland - 1871

Julia has been attending to the wounded Union soldiers, but now that the Civil War has ended, she struggles to find her purpose in this world. Her calling has been the healing of others, but can she heal herself, too?

When a boy whom Julia has been charged to take care of dies—the sickly son of a wealthy family—Julia is left searching for her next path in life. Her choices are limited, as she is not a wealthy woman nor is she married, and she fears that she must take the charity of her only living relative.

At the last moment, a dear friend suggests a rather risky plan: to travel across the country to the Montana frontier in search of a husband she has never met. Julia follows through, despite her reservations, only to find that her husband to be is a widower with a young son and a cold heart due to the circumstances that he has faced.

Will her warm and caring presence be the perfect cure to melt his heart?
