Our Friends - The Trees And Where to Find Them A. J. Gerk, R. M. Powell

From Foreword: "In the spring of 1985 the authors began a systematic search for as many different species of trees as could be found in Mason City. During this investigation the idea evolved of doing a revision of the Iversen book 'Our Friends-The Trees' published in 1937. Some specimens subsequently discovered have been added to those in the original volume. Permission was obtained for the use of line drawings from both 'Our Friends-The Trees' by Iversen and Brogue and from 'How to Know the Trees' by H.E. Jaques. For specimens not pictured in either book R.M. Powell did the line drawings." From Introduction: "The purpose of this book is to foster the greatest possible appreciation of our trees. It is quite simply intended to aid outdoors students of all ages in recognizing and enjoying the characteristics and quirks of our trees and thus coming to think of them as friends. Just as with our human friends we must meet and then know trees first before we can consider them friends with whom we can be comfortable. We must be able to call them by name and get to know some of their traits, relationships and special differences. This book is planned so that readers can locate, observe and then decide which trees have a special appeal for them. Also, it permits readers to become acquainted with many different trees in one localized area."
